Leslie,

We are in the very early stages of setting up the C2M Demo and still working out the bugs. I'm NOT asking or answering the greater philosophical question about "Why is the COBOL option even in the menu system for C2M?"..... ☺

C2M version 2.6.0.1.0

C2M Demo shows this option… I don't know if it's just a historical reference or if you can actually plug something in. It does seem to allow the option, but I can't run a batch to see what happens. We're having some javascript/browser issues and I don't have the full functionality of the application yet.

Both the main tab and the sql tab work and show data though...

In the versions of CC&B that have COBOL there is a menu option off of the Admin Menu the is COBOL Programs. This is where you would define any type of user exits that are custom. Do you know is there an equivalent of this for Java in the versions of CC&B that are Java only? Any information you could provide would be greatly appreciated.

Florida has a very broad Public Records Law. Virtually all written communications to or from State and Local Officials and employees are public records available to the public and media upon request. Any email sent to or from JEA's system may be considered a public record and subject to disclosure under Florida's Public Records Laws. Any information deemed confidential and exempt from Florida's Public Records Laws should be clearly marked. Under Florida law, e-mail addresses are public records. If you do not want your e-mail address released in response to a public-records request, do not send electronic mail to this entity. Instead, contact JEA by phone or in writing.
